

Peter F. Stanton Chairman of the Board and Chief Executive Officer

October 19, 2023

Dear Shareholders:

Whenever there is a big and unexpected shift in market conditions, there is the initial and pressing challenge of working through that shock event, which is then followed by a longer process of adapting to that new landscape. This pattern played out during the Great Recession, with major disruptions throughout 2008, followed by several years of working through the challenges from that shock event and adapting to a very different operating environment. That pattern is now playing out again. Over the past 18 months, the Fed engineered a sharp 525 basis point ("bps") upward move in interest rates to counteract a spike in inflation to levels not seen in 40 years. That significant upward shift in the rate environment after more than a decade of near zero interest rates changed the risks, rewards and calculations for all financial market participants. The significant disruption we all witnessed last spring has settled down considerably and seems to be behind us. We have emerged into a very different operating environment, and we are working through the longer process of adapting to these new conditions.

Since this cycle started, much work has been done and solid progress has been made. Deposit balances stabilized back in April and May, and since that time, deposits have increased $180 million, while total customer funding has increased $357 million. Unlike some institutions that have pulled back on lending, we remain committed to meeting our clients' borrowing needs. Loan growth has been fairly steady, growing $157 million in the third quarter and $401 million year-to-date ("YTD"), at progressively higher yields. Our bond holdings have declined $182 million YTD and we expect to continue working that position down over time, which will provide liquid resources to help cover loan growth and build cash resources to pay off borrowings when they begin maturing next spring. During the quarter, our borrowings increased $366 million as we borrowed $500 million of two-year money to help lock in our funding costs for when our Bank Term Funding Program ("BTFP") borrowings mature next spring. Until that time, these borrowed funds will be held at the Federal Reserve ("Fed") at what is currently a significant positive spread. All of these balance sheet dynamics have helped grow our cash position to more than $988 million.

In broad terms, this cycle has brought higher rates, deposit disintermediation, liquidity pressure, elevated borrowings, higher earning asset yields, but higher still funding costs and some significant shifts across our balance sheet. With all these dynamics underway, let's look at the Company's third quarter performance.

In the third quarter, earnings totaled $10.0 million, which was down $2.8 million from the second quarter, while year-to-date, earnings totaled $45.1 million. Quarterly earnings per share totaled $4.00, down $1.12 per share from the prior quarter. Return on assets was 0.36 percent, down from 0.49 percent in the second quarter and return on equity was 4.50 percent, down from 5.84 percent the previous quarter. The primary driver of lower earnings was a narrower net interest margin, which declined 16 bps to 2.51 percent. These performance levels are well below historical norms and certainly below where we'd like to be.

The primary driver of lower balance sheet earning power has been shifting funding balances and funding costs rising faster than earning asset yields. For the quarter, total funding costs, including all deposits and borrowings, were 1.86 percent, which was 39 bps higher than second quarter levels of 1.47 percent. This rise in funding costs reflects a combination of higher deposit pricing, migration of noninterest bearing deposit balances to interest bearing accounts, and additional borrowings. Higher funding costs are the natural byproduct of adapting to the higher rate environment. On the asset side, average earning asset balances increased $463 million, while earning asset yields increased 20 bps to 4.24 percent. Average loan balances increased $162 million and loan yields increased 15 bps to 5.51 percent. The largest increase in earnings asset balances rose $354 million and yields increased 29 bps to 5.43 percent.

We are closely tracking both funding costs and the "conversion" of earning asset balances to market yields. Just as loan principal payments are made on lower yielding portfolio loans, new loan originations are made at higher market rates, typically in excess of 7.00 percent. Additionally, as cash flow comes back on our bond portfolio at lower yields, it either helps fund higher yielding loan originations or resides on deposit at the Fed, with those balances currently yielding 5.40 percent. Over time, this process of repricing both sides of the balance sheet should help normalize earning power.

Despite net interest margin declining 16 bps, significantly higher average earning asset balances supported net interest revenue for the quarter, which only decreased by $247,000 quarter-over-quarter to $67.6 million. Noninterest revenue during the quarter declined $502,000 to $13.6 million, which was primarily due to a decline in bank card revenue. Noninterest expense increased $1.6 million to $64.1 million in the third quarter, with higher expenses spread across multiple categories, including office equipment, employee benefits, state revenue taxes and professional fees.

For the quarter, assets increased $711 million to $11.4 billion. This asset growth was primarily due to growth in customer funding and borrowings. We elected to retain that influx in liquidity in cash as an interest-bearing balance, which totaled $988 million at quarter end, since it earns a favorable return of 5.40 percent. Because there is a positive spread to our borrowing costs, we expect to retain those balances until our current BTFP borrowings mature next spring, rather than pre-pay them immediately. With assets growing substantially during the quarter, the Company's equity to asset ratio declined 49 bps from 8.23 percent at the end of the second quarter to 7.74 percent at the end of the third. For the quarter, the Company's book value per share increased $0.88 to $348.40, while year-over-year, book value per share increased $9.45, or 2.8 percent. Asset quality remained excellent with noncurrent loans totaling just $4.8 million, or 0.08 percent of total loans, as our borrowers' financial strength remains substantial. Loans classified substandard and doubtful also remained low at $98.2 million, down from $121.5 million last quarter. Despite continued low problem asset levels, we retain a sizeable allowance position of $144.4 million, representing 2.24 percent of loans.

With inflation down and the Fed slowing its monetary tightening steps, the external environment seems to have stabilized for now. A good portion of our balance sheet has adapted to this new environment, but more movement remains in front of us as earning assets reprice to market levels, borrowings are paid down and funding costs level out. As this process unfolds, we are mindful of the potential for more challenges ahead with difficult geo-political events unfolding across the globe, the historical precedence of a possible second run-up of inflation and an inverted yield curve, which typically portends a coming recession. For all of those reasons, we remain vigilant for possible external surprises and the importance of strength across the balance sheet.

With regard to our share repurchase program, on March 3, 2023, the Board of Directors reauthorized a share repurchase plan for up to $15.0 million of Class B common stock, which will be in effect over a twelve-month period. No share repurchases have been made to date under that authorization. Under the preceding share repurchase authorization of $10 million, the Company repurchased 28,728 shares in total for $10.0 million, and 1,138 of those shares were repurchased in the first quarter of 2023.

Difficult market conditions are when our clients need us most and we are helping them take care of their financial needs every day. Taking care of client needs, paying close attention to our positioning and strength to withstand the unexpected is our primary focus, along with executing on all of our strategic priorities. As we execute on our priorities, we are always mindful of you, our shareholders. Despite the challenges of the moment, we remain dedicated to delivering on our long-term objective of growing franchise and shareholder value. We greatly appreciate your continued support and confidence, and we look forward to reporting out to you on our progress next quarter.
